

KML Seating, Manesar

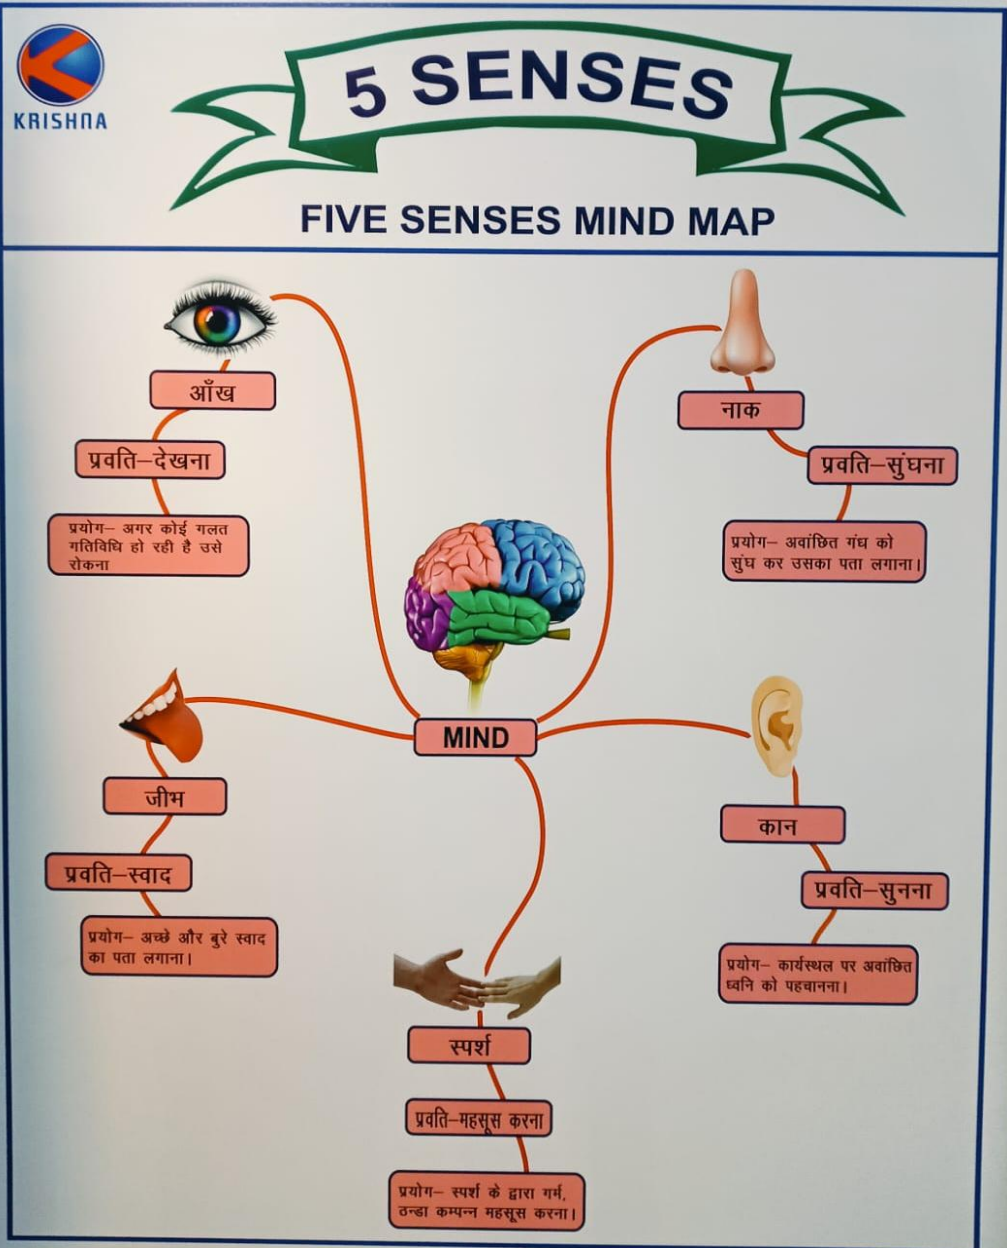

3. Behavioral & 5'Senses OSDT

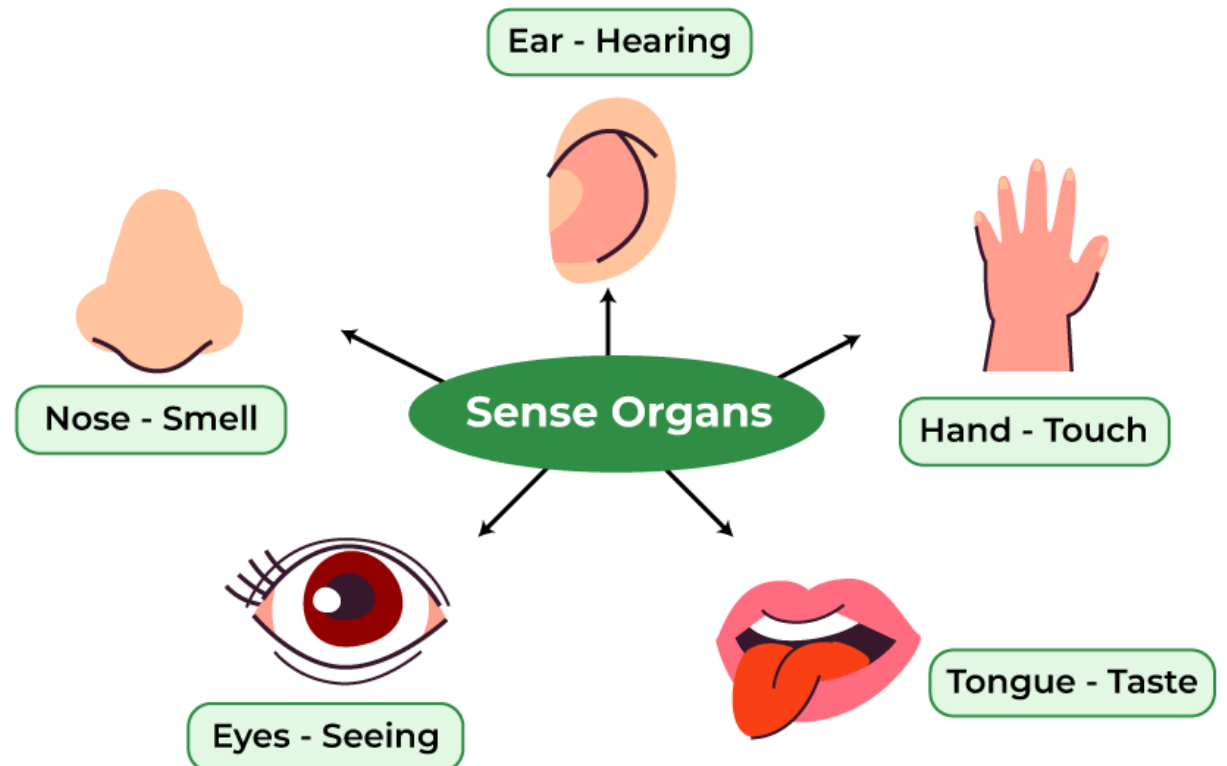

Table of Contents

- Introduction to 5'Senses
- 5'Senses Activities
- Different senses practice
- Behavioral training

➤ Introduction to 5 Senses

Those senses are sight, smell, hearing, taste, and touch. We see with our eyes, we smell with our noses, we listen with our ears, we taste with our tongue, and we touch with our skin. Our brain receives signals from each of these organs, and interprets them to give us a sense of what's happening around us.

➤ 5'Senses Activities

SIGHT 	My eyes give me the sense of sight	To differentiate parts based on size, color & type
TOUCH 	My hands give me the sense of touch	Understand parts type, size, weight & over heating equipment
HEARING 	My ears give me sense of hearing	Awareness of all the alarms, warning sound & any abnormal noise
TASTE 	My tongue gives me the sense of taste	Toxic/bitter taste in mouth/ throat in case of any hazardous gas leakage
SMELL 	My nose give me the sense of smell	Identification of abnormalities like burning wires, gas leak, over-heating, tool worn out etc.

➤ Different senses practice

OSDT Team provides the training simulations which helps in developing the 5 senses to use them in improving working speed to achieve desired takt time, Quality and Productivity targets.

5-Senses Dojo is also useful to identify the natural talent of trainee, which in turn helps in proper placement of trainee in an organization.

Practices that can be used for developing 5 senses are:

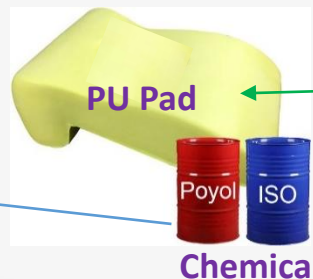

- Part Segregation using touch sense
- Part Segregation using sight sense
- Visual Judgment Practices

Chemical leakage
smelling

Seat belt Reminder miss

Head rest noise

Ear - Hearing

Dent marks on Reclining cover

➤ Behavioral Training

Behavioral skills are considered important and vital because they enhance personal and professional relationships, increase productivity, and lead to a better work experience and organizational culture.

Sample Behavioral Guidelines for New Employee:

Arrive on Time Company: Be early for company, ready to train both physically and mentally.

Use Company dress Code: Wear company uniform, Safety shoes, cap, name plate & happiness logo.

Follow company policy: You should follow company policy, code of conduct etc.

Maintain a Positive Attitude: Stay motivated, even when learning difficult techniques or facing challenges.

Practice with Intention: Focus on improving with each movement, even in basic drills.

Maintain a Clean Dojo: Respect the training space by helping to keep it clean and orderly.

Help to New Employee: Offer assistance to those who are struggling and be willing to learn from others.

Keep an Open Mind: Be open to learning different martial arts styles or approaches and stay curious.

Behavioural Training to Better Address
Changes and Challenges

Thank You
